FOREIGN HISTORY.

From the Gentleman's Magazine, for Sept. 1752.

SPAIN.

THE miniſters of this court being convinced of the ill effects of the long neglect of their manufactures, and the immenſe loſs that nation has ſuſtained from the ruin of forty thouſand looms, that formerly flouriſhed in the cities of Seville, Granada, and Toledo, which produced annually about forty millions of crowns, have of late began to apply a remedy. They have accordingly invited workmen from all nations, particularly England and Ireland, by offering great encouragement; and after procuring from England cards, ſhears, looms, and other utenſils for the woollen manufacture, are now intent on the manufacture of printed linnens, lately ſet up, and have prohibited the importation of all foreign manufactures of that kind into the port of Alicant. The king has eſtabliſhed a military ſchool for the young nobleſſe, and is improving his marine; for this purpoſe ſhip-carpenters of all nations are invited into Spain. Many are arrived from Genoa, and an Iriſhman of that profeſſion is engaged to build ſeveral large ſhips at Cadiz. On the 22d of Auguſt, 18 Tartans arrived at Cadiz from Naples, laden with wood for building eight ſhips of the line, which are upon the ſtocks there. Mean time the king's generoſity, or rather profuſion to his family, will appear ſtrange to an Engliſh ſubject, an inſtance of which is, his having made a preſent of 400,000 crowns to the dutcheſs of Parma, to defray the charges of her journey into France.

FRANCE.

The diſpute between the clergy and parliament of Paris, continues with as much heat as ever, and the court ſometimes inclines to one ſide of the queſtion, and ſometimes to the other, which only ſerves to encreaſe the reſentments of both. There have been

Jones* on John's Iſland. Whoever takes up and brings them, or either of 'em, to me, ſhall have a reward of 40 s. for each, and all reaſonable charges. MEYNELL WALTER.

LONDON, September 16.

IF any credit is due to ſome late advices from Madrid, one may conclude that the deſigns of Spain are juſt the ſame as before the late war. It is four years ſince the peace was ſigned, and to this day it has been impoſſible to bring the Spaniſh miniſtry to an agreement about navigation in the American ſeas. But after a tedious negotiation, after many memorials, repreſentations, and conteſtations, at laſt a ſtake in the graſs is diſcovered. According to theſe advices the court of Madrid ſtands upon ſome privileges which the ſay her trading ſubjects are entitled to in the ports of Great-Britain; but what the nature of thoſe advantages or privileges may be, we have not yet been able to learn. However, they give us to underſtand, that if our court will grant this point, the article of navigation in the Weſt Indies and baron Starke, a German, the inventors of a new metal, whoſe pores are of a compacter ſubſtance than that heretofore uſed in cannons and mortars, made an experiment of one of their mortars before the king in his gardens at Choiſy, in the preſence of ſeveral generals, and a vaſt number of other officers of the army, artillery, and others; when, without any platform under the mortar, (leſt it ſhould ſpoil the gardens) they fired fifteen bombs, in leſs than four minutes, from one mortar. The king was ſo well pleaſed, that he ordered them to erect an incloſed platform in the ſame gardens for a farther experiment; this being done, his majeſty with the duke de Villeroy, captain of his guards, was pleaſed to enter into the incloſure, for more certain information; when the ſaid Sieurs Moore and Starke, fired off twelve bombs from a mortar in one minute and a half, to the entire ſatisfaction of the king, &c. who, in a very public and gracious manner, acknowledged the ſame to the nobility about him.

Mr. Keene has made repreſen[illegible], in relation to the augmenta[illegible] men at that of this nation in [illegible] current throughout that city, that cardinal Tencin, ſecretary of ſtate, had communicated to the pope a letter he had received, giving an account of the pretender's exceſſes having changed his religion.

It was alſo reported there, that the pretender's ſecond ſon, the cardinal, had declared he had no intention of being reconciled to his father; and in caſe he was hindered from living by himſelf in Rome, he would retire and live himſelf at Bologna.

London, Sept. 21. Letters from Madrid of the 29th of Auguſt ſay, that his Catholick majeſty has reſolved to ſend a ſtrong ſquadron to America, to ſupport his Guarda Coſtas in the execution of their orders to prevent every kind of contraband trade: Which reſolution, they tell us, he has taken upon advice that the Britiſh court intends to ſend a ſquadron to the Weſt Indies to protect the commerce and navigation of the Engliſh.

There are letters in town, importing, that the pretender's eldeſt ſon is actually at Berlin, where, 'tis ſaid, he has publickly abjured the Popiſh religion.

Sept. 23. We hear that an application will be made, next winter, for ſhortening proceedings in courts of law, that the people may preſerve their invaluable privileges of having all matters in conteſt determined by a Jury, without ſuch an expence and loſs of time as often makes Juſtice itſelf a Grievance.

They write from Liſbon, that not long ago, Cardinal M, who, (by the way) it is ſaid, will ſpeedily receive a diſpenſation from the pope, to wear the habit of a ſecular prieſt, received a bullet from an unknown hand with this hint,—If your Eminency would keep the Gold in the Kingdom, promote Induſtry, and, inſtead of Maſſes, reform Manufactures.

Sept. 26. We find it aſſerted in moſt of the foreign gazettes, as if there ſeems to be no [illegible] not be apprized of it here, that a [illegible]

Sept. 28. According to ſome private letters from Raſtadt, there is a majority in the college of princes againſt the queſtion, whether there is a neceſſity for meeting a diet of the Romans at this juncture? and the marſhal of Aſtorch's circular letter to the princes of the empire on this ſubject, has been wrote in conſequence of the encouragement given by a certain court in Germany, who ſeems diſpoſed to help the college of princes to maintain the negative of that queſtion againſt the electoral college, in caſe the election ſhould come on.

Tueſday laſt was held a general court of the Eaſt Britiſh Fiſhery, when admiral Vernon very pathetically repreſented the vaſt injury done to the nation by the ſwarms of French buſſes at this time on the back of the Yarmouth ſands; and Mance inforced the neceſſity of having a ſtrict eye to the increaſe of our naval power.

Sept. 30. A general officer, who had an exceeding fair character, dying lately at Berlin in very narrow circumſtances, his Pruſſian majeſty made a viſit within a few days after his burial to his widow, and after having previouſly commended the deceaſed in very high terms, added, of his bad breed, madam, I ſhall have put it in his power to have provided for you and your family, as it is, that any child would have been his as ſoon as mine, and I have ordered ſuch a ſettlement to be made, as his relict ought to have, and was really due to his ſervice.

October 4. We hear the yachts are ordered to be ready to ſail for Holland by to-morrow night.

It is ſaid, that an application will be made next winter to procure the repeal of thoſe laws, which, in order to aſcertain duties, preſcribe an oath of diſcovery to be taken by thoſe who are to pay them; becauſe this, by experience, proves a ſnare to many conſciences, and leſſens the regard due to an oath, the higheſt tie of [illegible]

[illegible] to the revenue.

We hear that ſix ſhips of war are fall'd from [illegible] in Spain, victualled and manned for the Weſt-Indies.

Extract of letters from Leoſtoff and Yarmouth, dated September 23*d.*

We have the mortification to ſee all the bank of our Sands lined with a wood of French buſſes; they may already amount to 300. It has moſt heavy complaints amongſt all the fiſhers, that the French, with their great numbers, take the beſt of the ground, and prevent our coming on it; and not contented with that, they anchor afterward upon that very ground, when by our fiſhermen are prevented from even ſhooting at all.

P.S. The French buſſes are of 100 tons and upwards, and carry 30 hands; ſo that they have good ſailors upon our coaſt at this preſent time.

Yarmouth, Sept. 24. The French buſſes continue as thick as locuſts on the back of our ſands, ſo that our boats have been obliged to haul in their nets, before they had drove above half an hour: And what is worſe, there is not, as yet, one ſingle ſloop of war to protect the fiſhery.

London, Oct. 17. By a letter from Paris we have an account, that they have juſt made a proof of a large number of mortars and cannon, which are to be ſent to the Indies, and are taking conſiderable numbers of ſeamen of young clever fellows to ſend with them.

We hear that the ſtates of Cape [illegible] of the fourteen boſſoms [illegible] the riche between the [illegible] eſtates of theſe [illegible]

Extract of a letter from Yarmouth, Oct. [illegible]

"The French buſſes are very troubleſome here. [illegible] and Saturday night, one [illegible] of the foreign fiſhers, [illegible] ſpoiled three of my nets, but by keeping a good look out, I had the fortune to keep mine from ſpoiling; and the morning."

They write from Madrid, that the queen of Spain [illegible] infirm ſtate of health, which [illegible] ſeveral [illegible] and a certain [illegible] preſented a memorial in reference to the [illegible] is making at the Spaniſh ports for America, [illegible] ſome people ſeem to doubt whether [illegible] intended for Americe or [illegible] Algiers [illegible] buſineſs of Algiers [illegible]
